

Last night at the Sound

We took a ride out to Puget Sound by our house last night. We are getting smoke drifting down from the fires in British Columbia, causing interesting colors in the sky.

My hubby checking out the tide pools.

Looking across the sound at Whidbey Island.

Some Canadian invaders came in to look for food.

I found some baby fish in the tide pools.

A heron flew in to do some fishing while we were on the beach.